PREFATORY.

We present to the citizens of Asheville and public in general our 1899-1900 Asheville City Directory with the firm belief that in point of information and completeness it will give entire satisfaction and reflect credit upon the city. In the canvass for the names of the citizens we find the nearest average number allowed to each name in the directory to be "three" to the white and three and one-half to the colored. (The average used in nearly all cities.)

We have recorded from A to Z of the general directory (both white and colored), 7,992 names, which shows that the population of Asheville, including Biltmore, West Asheville, Victoria, Ramoth, etc., is 23,976.

In conclusion, we beg to return our most cordial thanks to those who have so generously given us their support, and to them we hereby dedicate this work. To the public generally who have kindly aided us in getting up the data, etc., we return our acknowledgments. To our patrons and the public in general, we promise to make each succeeding volume of our Asheville City Directory more worthy of commendation and patronage, and we will issue it as often as of actual necessity.

Respectfully,

Asheville is situated on a plateau 2250 feet above sea level, and is sheltered on the east and north by high mountains, while miles beyond the French Broad river on the west the mountain ranges keep out the northwest winds and snows.

Asheville's Situation To the south the plateau is unbroken except by hills, and three miles away the Vanderbilt mansion of white stone gleams and glistens in the sunlight. Right across the plateau to the south, a mile and a half from the center of the city, the beautiful Swannanoa river sweeps toward the west and with sudden curve towards the north joins the French Broad, which flows west of the city, at the bottom of the hills, in a northerly direction. No description of the scenery in and around Asheville can be made without resort to language that would seem to those who have not visited this section, extravagant. So much has been said and so much written in an attempt to describe the natural beauties, and the marvelous variety of scenery that charms the eye, that language has been taxed to the utmost limit. Where nature has prepared a feast for the soul in the ever-changing and lovely mountain views, in hill and dale, peaks and valleys, and in limpid streams resplendent with the matchless rhododendron, laurel and azalea, one should come and enjoy the scenery in person and not trust to the imagination that for once falls short of the reality.

Cosmopolitanism and Population It is a matter of common remark from those who visit Asheville that they meet here people whom they know. A few years ago a census of one of the public schoolbuildings, containing 500 pupils, was taken, to see how many of the pupils were born in Asheville. Of the total number, just 86 could speak of Asheville as their birthplace. This will give an idea of how cosmopolitan this city of 15,000 people is. There is probably not a state in the Union, not a civilized country on the globe, that has not furnished its quota of wide-awake citizens to Asheville's brisk intellectual and commercial atmosphere. Where nature has been so lavish in her gifts of indescribable and varied scenery and in her clear, bracing climate, it would be strange if the people here were unmindful of their advantages and were not making a city in keeping with the perfect surroundings. And so, elegantly equipped hotels are here, ranking with the best in the country, catering to seekers of health, pleasure and recreation, and patronized by thousands of visitors. Among these are the Battery Park, Kenilworth Inn, Swannanoa, Hotel Berkeley, Oaks, Glen Rock, Asheville, Arcadia, and Western. On account of the splendid hotel accommodations offered here Asheville is becoming widely and favorably known as one of the leading convention cities of the country. Accustomed to handling large numbers of visitors all the year round, it is especially suitable for convention assemblies. Hotel rates are from one to four dollars per day, with capacity for fully one thousand. Scores of home-like boarding houses are here; excellent modern flats, and beautiful private residences, occupied by refined and cultured people, many of whom are persons of wealth. Retired army and navy officers, and business and professional men have selected homes here on account of health, social and educational advantages. The number of homes that are being built in the city at all times of the year is a matter of surprise to those visitors who do not know that many people who come to Asheville to remain a few months become permanent residents. This fact speaks more forcibly than any language as to the attractiveness of this city as both a summer and winter resort. The number of visitors is increasing each year, and is about equally divided between the north and the south. This steady increase is sufficient answer to objections to Asheville raised and exploited by the smaller and less scrupulous bidders for our high class patronage.

Summer and Winter Resort

There are twenty-five churches in Asheville, including the Baptist, the Methodist Episcopal, the Presbyterian, Christian, Lutheran, Roman Catholic, Jewish and Unitarian. The Baptist, Methodist, Presbyterian and Episcopal have congregations of colored people as well as white. The people of Asheville are largely a church-going people, and there are about 10,000 sittings.

Religious Interests

There is a Y. M. C. A., well and strongly established and doing good work. The association has Sunday afternoon meetings, a weekly Bible class, an excellent educational department, reading tables, library, gymnasium and bath rooms.

The progress in education in Asheville has been very rapid in the past ten years. The natural conditions which prevail here pre-eminently fit Asheville for an educational center of a high order. The large number of desirable citizens from every part of the country, attracted here by the unsurpassed climatic conditions, has made educational facilities of every kind a necessity. The total value of private and public school property in Asheville and its suburbs is $356,000, with an attendance of nearly 3,000 pupils.

Schools and Colleges

The graded schools were started in January, 1888, and in the fall of that year the first large building was erected. To-day there are four large brick buildings, well equipped, a High School department, thirty-one teachers and one superintendent. The schools are absolutely free of political or sectarian influences, the teachers are well trained and progressive, and the popularity of the schools is attested by the large patronage of every class of society. Visitors who come to spend the winter here can, and do, bring their children and place them in the public and private schools.

Public and Private Schools

One of the most prominent institutions in the State is the Asheville College for Young Women, which is an outgrowth of the Dickson Seminary and the Asheville Female College. The property was bought in 1897, by Prof. A. A. Jones of Lexington, Mo., has been remodeled and improved in every way, and under his able management has already taken a position as an institution of the very first rank. and during the first year of the present administration it numbered among its students young ladies from twenty-three States. The College grounds are beautiful and ample, and admirably located with reference to the city. The buildings and splendid equipments, valued at $30,000, offer excellent facilities both as a comfortable home and as a school of high order. The college faculty is composed of sixteen members. The teachers, like those of the other educational institutions of Asheville, are drawn from leading colleges and universities from all parts of the United States, thus insuring breadth of thought and thoroughness of scholarship.

Asheville College for Young Women

Besides the courses of study usually found in first class colleges, the students in Botany and Biology, through the kindness of Mr. George W. Vanderbilt, have access to his Botanical Gardens and extensive Arboretum, which are located on his Biltmore estate of 10,000 acres, two miles from the college. No other school presents equal advantages in this respect.

Seven years ago the famous Bingham School, after a most distinguished career of ninety-nine (99) years in middle North Carolina, was driven from its former location by three fires in less than nine years, and came to Asheville on account of the climate and with full faith in the educational possibilities of the place. The school is one of the oldest institutions of learning in the whole South and the only one which has come down from grandfather to grandson through three generations of distinguished teachers. The U. S. Government's Bureau of Education in Washington, the highest possible authority on such a subject, says in "Contributions to

The Bingham School (for Boys)

American Educational History," Circular of Information, No. 2. Page 131: "The Bingham School stands preeminent among Southern Schools for Boys and ranks with the best in the Union, and has reached its highest efficiency under its present Superintendent, Major Robert Bingham." The officials of the U. S. Government who have seen the school, the Vice-President, Army Officers detailed as Military Professors, Naval Officers and Army Inspectors say that it is the best. The Executive, Judiciary and Military Departments of the North Carolina State Government say the same thing. More than seventy-five Medical Experts who have inspected it say that its sanitary conditions are the best in the country. The wisdom of having selected so excellent a location and of having erected a school plant so well equipped for health, comfort, convenience, discipline, instruction, and safety against fire, is abundantly vindicated by the fact that this school is a financial and educational success in the fullest sense. In addition to a good North Carolina patronage, it attracted more than eighty (80) pupils during the last year from sixteen other States, North and South.

The Normal and Collegiate Institute is unique in its character and aims, making a long step in advance of the ordinary arrangements, apparatus and facilities for the education of the young women. The building is spacious and imposing, heated with steam, furnished with hot and cold baths, plentifully supplied with pure water from springs on the premises. The site, composing thirty-three acres, includes a magnificent grove of forest trees. Health culture is provided for in a well furnished gymnasium, under the care of an experienced teacher.

The Normal and Collegiate Institute

The class work is presided over by efficient and accomplished instructors. The work of preparing teachers is thoroughly and conscientiously done, and young women are efficiently trained for a business life, and for the duties of a Christian home. Through the liberality of a few friends of the higher education of young women, the privileges of this school are put within the reach of families whose means are slender, and there is no institution in the State where a pupil can enjoy like privileges at so inconsiderable a cost. Dr. Thomas Lawrence is the efficient head of the institution.

The Home Industrial School is situated in the suburbs of Asheville, about one mile south of the business center of the town. It is surrounded by a plot of ground consisting of thirty-three acres, which it occupies jointly with the Normal and Collegiate Institute. The purpose of the school is to place within reach of girls who would otherwise be deprived of an education, the opportunity to secure educational advantages such as will enable them to become useful, self-supporting women.

The Home Industrial School

The name of the school indicates its scope of work. It is a Christian home where the Scriptures are read and studied daily. Each member of the family has some share of ministering to the family comfort, as all the work of the house is done by the girls under the direction and supervision of the matron.

The work periods include six weeks' time, and at the close of each period every girl is assigned to a different kind of work, and by this method, each one, during the year, has practiced in all departments of housework. The principles of housework and household economy are taught in the kitchengarden classes. The sewing department gives training in plain sewing, in drafting, cutting and fitting dresses, in fancy work and embroidery. Besides the cooking that must necessarily be done for the family, each student has the advantage of twenty-four lessons in cookery.

The course of study begins with the first primary grade and covers six years' work. Those who complete the work are competent to secure first-class certificates from county superintendents of public instruction, but they are not well equipped teachers until after completing the course in the Normal and Collegiate Institute, which covers four years' additional study.

Miss Florence Stephenson is the efficient manager of this school.

The Asheville Farm School, situated eight miles from the city, is doing the same work for boys that the Home Industrial School is doing for girls. The present capacity of the school is eighty-eight, and this number could easily be doubled if there were more room. The capacity of the school will be enlarged as rapidly as possible, and equipments increased so as to give the pupils an education in every branch of industrial work. Under the management of Superintendent Jeffreys, the school is growing rapidly in efficiency and popularity, and the training given the boys is admirable in every respect.

Asheville Farm School

Skyland Institute, J. S. Dickey, principal, is a private school, established in September, 1894, for both sexes. It has enjoyed a large patronage from its very beginning, having every year all the pupils it could accommodate, both in literary and music departments.

Skyland Institute

It is non-sectarian and is patronized by every denomination in the city, and has won its reputation solely on the merits of the thorough work it does.

The Misses Champion's School for Girls The Misses Champion's School for Girls was opened in January, 1886, and has been successful from its beginning, owing to the refined culture and surroundings, and thorough instruction.

The Asheville Free Kindergartens The Asheville Free Kindergartens, under the management of an association, consist of four schools in different parts of the city, and are doing a splendid work for the younger children.

The Industrial School (Colored) The Industrial School, colored, is doing an excellent work for the colored youth of the city who patronize it.

There are numerous smaller schools.

The Asheville Summer School and Conservatory The Asheville Summer School and Conservatory, endorsed by the Board of Trade and organized by a number of leading citizens of the city, held its first session July 7-August 17, 1898. The school was conducted in the buildings and grounds of the Asheville College for Young Women. The artists and teachers employed were selected from the leading conservatories and universities, a thing possible in view of the fact that these institutions are as a rule closed for the summer. The courses of instruction given by the Summer School are vocal and instrumental music, art, elocution and such other branches of science and literature as are demanded. Students in botany and biology have access to the Vanderbilt Botanical Garden and Arboretum.

Library A handsome library under the management of an association of ladies and gentlemen, is largely patronized, and contains, besides about 4,000 volumes of good books, the leading periodicals on its reading tables.

A membership fee of $2.00 per annum is charged for the use of the books and rooms.

Board and Rents Unfurnished houses of eight to twelve rooms can be rented for $20 to $50. Small cottages rent from $5 to $20. Flats $15 to $20. Good board can be obtained in any part of the city or suburbs at $20 to $50 per month.

Western North Carolina, with its sublime scenery and the charms of its dry and equable climate, has made Asheville renowned as a health resort. But few places in America can be found with the same climatic advantages and scenic beauty as this God-favored and sun-lit land.

Climate The recovery of sufferers from catarrhal, rheumatic, nervous and pulmonary affections, affords ample proof of the healing properties found in this pure and exhilarating atmosphere. The absolute freedom from malaria, due largely to the great fall of the French Broad river, which acts as a natural drain to this part of the country, and the situation between the extreme cold North and the enervating heat of the South, give Asheville the right to be called the best "all the year round resort" on the continent.

When compared with the most renowned resorts of the Old World it ranks among the first, as will be seen by the following table:

|            | Spring. | Summer. | Autumn. | Winter. | Mean Yearly. |

What

Asheville is Not

It is not a mere watering place, closed for a large part of the year. It is a health resort all the year round.

It is not a mountain village with a depot, a sidetrack, a store, and a hotel, but a large and growing city with railroad lines, water, gas, electricity, street cars, pavements, and other modern necessities.

It is not a place where men never die, where one may abuse nature with impunity, but it is nature's great sanitarium where exhausted vitality is restored, and its ozonized atmosphere is highly unfavorable to the propagation of the germs of tubercular disease.

It is not a hot climate.

It is not a cold climate.

It is not summer all the year round.

It is not winter nine months in the year.

It is not anywhere near the seashore, but miles straight inland, among the wonderful mountains of the Alleghany and Blue Ridge ranges.

It is not an unknown place, but already entertains thousands of visitors annually.

It is not a sectional resort, but is patronized by North, South, East and West alike.

It is not a temporary resort, but a place where people from all parts of the country are building permanent homes.

It is not far from the centers of national prosperity and is easy of access. You may ride to Asheville in a Pullman buffet car.

It is not out of touch with the day's doings, for New York papers are read here at breakfast next morning.

It is not subject to malaria.

It is not full of half dead people, but is alive with energy and ozone, a stimulus to mind, body and estate.

It is not a number of other things which some strangers suppose it to be.

It is possessed of a highly ozonized atmosphere.

It is where Sir Andrew Clark, M. D., of London, England, Dr. Loomis, of New York, Dr. Marcy, of Boston, and other great specialists have sent hundreds of patients suffering from throat and lung diseases. Physicians should read Dr. Marcy's paper on Climatology, delivered before the International Medical Congress. It gives facts. So do papers issued by some of our leading physicians.

What

Asheville Is

It is the center of a circle embracing the territory bounded by the Mississippi river, the Gulf of Mexico, the Atlantic Ocean and the Great Lakes. No other resort draws from so wide a field.

It has 25 churches, six miles of paved streets, three electric car lines. It has a splendid system of water works supplying pure water, which has its source in the Black Mountain range. In an analysis of a sample of water from the Asheville, N. C., water supply, made June 28, 1897, by A. C. Abbott of the Laboratory of Hygiene, University of Pennsylvania, Dr. Abbott says: "Chemically, this is a pure water, according to the classification of Dr. Chaumont." It has also a perfect system of sewers; electric light and gas plant; two banks; three clubs; the best golf links in the South, with country club house; fire alarms and fire company; two telephone exchanges, seven private schools; four modern public school buildings; a cotton mill with 8,500 spindles and 100 looms; roller mill; five tobacco warehouses; a bicycle club; two Y. M. C. A. associations, one white and one colored; the best city market in the South; United States district court and internal revenue building; two daily and three weekly newspapers, with a number of church, school and society publications; the best opera house in the State; three large, modern and well equipped sanitariums; the finest livery in the South; ice factories; dairies; green houses; cigar factories; lodges of all the leading orders; a Mission hospital; Flower mission; children's home; Asheville reformatory; Lindley training school; fifteen hotels, etc., etc.

The business of Asheville amounts to about $3,500,000 per annum. The assessed value of city property is $4,758,801. The rate of taxation on valuation is $1.20 for the city (20 cents of this for schools) and 90 cents for State and county (18 cents of this for schools).

An evidence of the permanent nature of Asheville's prosperity, the value of its climate and the beauty of its scenery, is afforded by the magnificent home—a princely manor—established just outside of the city by Geo. W. Vanderbilt, of New

Vanderbilt's Biltmore

York. With a vast fortune and with a whole world to choose from he has selected Asheville as the one place for creating the splendid house and lordly park which his architects and engineers have constructed under the direction of Frederick Law Olmsted, the landscape architect, who gave New York her Central Park. The house was built under the direction of the eminent architect, the late Richard M. Hunt, and is a chateau of the French Renaissance, 375 feet long and 150 feet wide, and in some features not unlike the famous chateau at Blois, France.

The Biltmore Estate contains about 10,000 acres and the Pink Beds and adjacent tract of Mr. Vanderbilt's hunting preserve comprise about 84,000 acres. This is known as Pisgah Forest.

An arboretum embracing twelve miles of winding road traverses the Biltmore domain, and to complete its planting, 10,000,000 plants will be required, many of which are now being propagated. The number of plants already propagated and set out in the landscape plantings in the Biltmore nurseries for use on the estate reaches the enormous total of 10,000,000, the nurseries having an annual output of something over 2,000,000 plants.

Col. A. K. McClure, Philadelphia Times says: "I have seen the grand mountain views of every part of our continent east of the Sierra Nevada, and must testify that there is no mountain scenery this side of the Rocky Mountains that equals, or even approaches the grandeur of the varied views presented here. It is not surprising that thousands of visitors come from the Sunny South in the summer time to enjoy the bracing atmosphere and unrivaled beauty of these mountains, nor is it surprising that thousands come here from the North in the winter to escape the sudden changes and oppressive rigor of our winter climates. It is the one pleasure and health-seeking region which has all seasons for its worshippers. Its rides and drives of unequalled beauty; its dry exhilarating atmosphere; its genial winters, even among the mountain tops, and its pure breezes and cool nights in the heat of summer, make it an all-the-year resort for those who seek pleasure, rest or fugitive health, and it is evidently destined to become the great resort of the American continent."

W. H. Weir, of W. Weir & Sons, bankers, Montreal, Canada, said: "I came to Asheville two years ago from Montreal, Canada, for the benefit of the health of my family, and have resided here during the summer and winter, and I have no hesitation in saying that as an all-year-round climate Asheville has few equals and none superior, either in climate or scenery and beautiful drives, all of which are so necessary to the invalid or pleasure seeker. As a place to make a home where climate and comfort of living are a consideration Asheville has few equals."

Dr. G. W. Gleitzmann, of New York, who devoted periods of from ten to thirteen years to personal observations of the climate of the Asheville plateau, its temperature, humidity, rainfall and sunshine, has tabulated the results of his labors. The figures compare favorably for those concerning any celebrated mountain resort in America or Europe. "During a period of eight years," says Dr. Gleitzmann, "the mercury but twice rose above 88 degrees and but three times fell below three degrees."

Physicians' Opinions

Drs. Segur and Lloyd, of Brooklyn, after personally examining the Asheville plateau, declare what is well known to every resident, that there is no malaria, and the advantages for its treatment in patients coming here are indicated.

Dr. Samuel Westray Battle, Passed Assistant Surgeon, U. S. Navy, retired, says of the climate: "It is cool in summer, yet the winters, shorn of their harshness by reason of its southern latitude, induce almost daily out-of-door exercise, in the way of shooting, driving, riding, or short mountain excursions on foot. Moderate altitude, dry and ozoniferous atmosphere, bright sunshine and beautiful scenic environment are the important factors of the region."

Prof. Dixon, of Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, states that the health of himself and family nowhere improved so much as in Asheville. He is "not aware of any other spot in Europe or America so full of all that is desirable as the country of Asheville."

The mountains of Western North Carolina are covered with a deep, rich soil, mostly clothed with heavy forests to the tops. There are some exceptions where there are balds, which are natural meadows found on the tops of many of the highest mountains. This pastureage is used for herds of domestic animals which are annually driven to remain until the cold weather sets in, and has been the chief aid to make the production of fine beef our leading agricultural output. During the last few years, although cattle have been at an extremely low price everywhere, many of our farmers have continued to feed largely, the number of head turned out by some farms often exceeding 100 or more each season, and being marketed chiefly in Richmond, Va. Now that an era of better prices has set in this is a most promising industry.

The cultivated productions of this section are as diversified as in the Piedmont section, cotton and rice excepted. All the cereals and all the grasses are cultivated. This is not to be wondered at when the fact becomes known that the soils of the basins of the rivers of this section and its mountain valleys, are noted for their fertility.

Among these valleys most noted for extent and quality of soil may be mentioned the upper French Broad and Mills river valleys of Henderson and Transylvania; the Swannanoa, in Buncombe; and the Pigeon river, Richland and Jonathan's creek flat lands, in Haywood. This entire transmontane country is adapted to stock raising. Timothy, herds grass, and other rich pasture grasses respond readily to cultivation; and once established, the grass perpetuates itself upon the land. In fact, where undergrowth is removed, the trees thinned, and the surface stirred and sown in orchard grass, it flourishes luxuriantly while the forest trees are left standing. Lately, attention has been turned to raising cattle for the market, and to the breeding of fine stock. There is good opportunity presented for cattle and sheep breeding and for dairy products.

Garden vegetables grow well here, and there is a fine opening for trucking of almost all kinds. The cabbage and Irish potato grow here to a high degree of perfection. In addition to these, sweet potatoes, spinach, turnips, onions, lettuce, beans, peas, cucumbers, squash, tomatoes, okra, beets, radishes, sweet corn, celery, and numerous other vegetables are successfully cultivated. There is a splendid opening here for trucking, not only for the home market, but for shipment, and the increase in trade of this kind has been greatly stimulated by the truck farming on the Vanderbilt estate. But a quantity of vegetables that could easily be raised in this section, is imported. One hotel alone buys from further South over $500 worth of vegetables per month, nearly all of which could be raised around Asheville. Major McKissick, proprietor of the Battery Park hotel, declares that the celery of this section, if properly handled, cannot be surpassed by any other in the world, and yet the amount raised here amounts to almost nothing.

Small fruits go to waste for lack of attention, and there is wealth in the berries and other small fruits whenever systematic cultivation and care are bestowed upon them. Owing to the altitude of this section, strawberries, which can be raised in large quantities and excellent quality, and bring fine prices, reach their perfect growth and are ready for shipment just after the berry crop further south and in the eastern section of this State is exhausted.

Fruit Growing

As to grape culture, it is only necessary to call attention to the Engadine Vineyards in Buncombe county to prove with what success grapes can be grown.

Farm labor is much less expensive in this section than at the North or West, owing to the milder climate and cheaper products. Farm labor can be had at prices ranging from 8 to 12 dollars per month. This labor is at present mostly untrained, but is capable of intelligent training, easily controlled and satisfied. Strikes are unknown in this part of the country. With reasonable care and training the same class of work here can be done at much cheaper price than further north. Mechanics get from $1.00 to $2.50 per day.

Labor

Farm Lands

Timber lands can be bought at from $1.50 to $5 per acre. Agricultural lands at from $8 to $100 per acre, according to quality, proximity to railroads, towns, etc. These are prices of land either in a high state of cultivation already or capable of being made so. Poorer lands are much cheaper.

Water Power and Waters

Water power and waters are abundant as may be inferred from the character of the country. Streams are bold, free and numerous, the water is pure, clear and cool. Of the many undeveloped powers in this section we mention only one. Four and one-half miles below Asheville on the French Broad river there is a splendid water power of 5,000 horse power with a fall of thirty-one and a half feet in three-fourths of a mile. Easily developed. This power was surveyed by High-tower Bros., of Holyoke, Mass.

The State constitution regulates taxation by providing that the legislature levying a tax shall state the object to which it is to be applied, and restrict its use to that particular object. An equation between the property and the capitation tax is established by directing that the capitation tax levied on each citizen shall be equal to the tax on property valued at $300 in cash. The capitation tax is levied on every male inhabitant in the State over 21 and under 50 years of age, and shall never exceed $2 on the head. The effect of this limitation restricts the tax on each hundred dollars worth of property to sixty-six and two-thirds cents. The amount of taxes levied for county purposes cannot exceed the double of the State tax, except for a special purpose and with the approval of the legislature. Homestead exemption includes personal property to the amount of $500, and vests in the owner for life only, and until his children become of age, the homestead and the dwellings and buildings used therewith, not exceeding in value $1,000, to be selected by him. By an act of the last legislature the State will duplicate not exceeding $500 any sum raised by subscription or special taxation in any school district. This has already given an impetus to education in the country districts.

Medicinal herbs in this section are gathered in immense quantities and shipped to northern cities and Europe. Bales of herbs may be seen collected about the country stores as bales of cotton in other sections. Ginseng is shipped in large quantities to China, and the trade in medicinal herbs has grown into a large business.

Medicinal Herbs

Statesville, N. C., has the largest medicinal herb warehouse in the world. It is not generally known that there are more varieties of plants in Western North Carolina than anywhere else on the continent.

Asheville is now approached by rail from the north via Salisbury, N. C., and Morristown, Tenn., from the east via Salisbury, from the south via Spartanburg, S. C., and the west and northwest both from Murphy, N. C., and Morristown, Tenn., thus giving egress and ingress in every direction.

Railroads

All these lines are under the control of the Southern Railway, which is doing much in the upbuilding of this section and will make any reasonable concessions to those who desire to establish bona fide manufactories on its lines, and bona fide settlers in other lines of work may expect the same liberal treatment from this wideawake system.

Such is a bird's-eye view of Western Carolina, of which Asheville is the capital, geographically, educationally, socially and commercially. Excursion rates can always be had to Asheville, and those interested in anything pertaining to this city or section should either come here and see for themselves, or address, for more detailed information, the Secretary of the Board of Trade, or Ticket Agent of the Southern Railway.

THE CARLSBAD OF AMERICA

United States Government and under its direct supervision.

On April 20th, 1832, the United States government, by Act of Congress, set apart and dedicated to the people of the United States, 2,560 acres of land at Hot Springs, Ark., as a National Reservation, not to be entered, located or appropriated for any other purpose than its development into a great American sanitarium of the first rank, where those afflicted with disease could find relief, and be cared for during their stay in a manner commensurate with their condition in life. There were at first many obstacles in the way of a successful accomplishment of this purpose, by no means the least of which was the absence of necessary transportation facilities. The establishment of direct railroad connection with all parts of the country, in 1874, disposed of this difficulty, however, and since that time the development of Hot Springs has been rapid, substantial and even wonderful. In fact this charming resort of the Ozarks is, today, the peer of any health resort of the Old World and immeasurably the superior in every respect of any of its American contemporaries.

The pre-eminence of the Hot Springs of Arkansas is due to the following facts:

1. The unquestioned value of the waters, which is recognized the world over and proven by three-quarters of a century of practical results.
2. The official endorsement of the United States government, which owns these springs, and, through its properly appointed officials, superintends and directs the distribution of the waters, regulates the method of using them, and even fixes the maximum charges for their enjoyment, thereby protecting the people from extortion and placing the means of relief within the reach of everyone. It should be noted also, in this connection, that the government has erected and maintains on the Reservation, for the benefit of its invalid soldiers and sailors, the most thoroughly equipped army and navy hospital on the face of the globe. It has also expended, and is now expending, vast sums of money in improving and beautifying the reservation, transforming the surroundings into a delightful park, with every accessory of beautiful scenery, superb drives and unlimited facility for recreation and amusement.

3. The matchless climate. Nestled among the foothills of the Ozark Mountains, in latitude 34 degrees and 31 minutes north, and at an altitude of about 1,000 feet above sea level, the climate of Hot Springs challenges comparison with that of any resort in the world. The skies are as clear and beautiful as those of Italy, while the temperature never reaches an extreme in either direction which renders it uncomfortable. The surrounding hills and mountains are covered with a dense growth of luxuriant forest trees, among which the pine largely predominates, its balsamic aroma contributing materially to the purity and healthfulness of the air. It is the home of the mistletoe and of the holly.

4 The moderate altitude. At all health resorts the question of altitude is a most vital one. If too low, the danger of malaria is ever present, a most serious one to those weakened by the ravages of disease. If too high, the well known effect of high altitudes in quickening the respiration and the action of the heart, presents a complication to be dreaded even more than the effect of malaria, and especially is this true where hot baths are administered, as such baths themselves produce exactly similar results, which, when intensified by the atmospheric conditions referred to, form a combination that few invalids can successfully resist. It is a fact, recognized by life insurance companies, that the respiration which in a moderate altitude is considered normal at from eighteen to twenty-two per minute, is increased to a normal of from twenty-five to twenty-eight in high altitudes; also that the heart's action keeps pace in proportion with the respiration. Another thing, the humidity of the atmosphere in a moderate altitude ranges from sixty-five to seventy-five, while in a high altitude it is reduced to from thirty-five to forty-five, with the result that a person emerging from a hot bath in the former takes from thirty-five to forty minutes to cool off, while in the latter, owing to the rapid absorption of the moisture by the dry and hungry atmosphere, the process occupies but fifteen or twenty minutes, too rapid to be safe and even producing deleterious results. For these reasons, in the high mountain resorts, hot baths are given only at rare intervals, while at a moderate altitude they may be taken every day with advantage. Hot Springs enjoys the desired happy medium of altitude, and in this it is not approached by any other American resort. Its elevation of about 1,000 feet, and the absence of marshy ground and stagnant water, give absolute freedom from malaria, and while not high enough to affect to an unhealthy degree the action of the respiratory or secretory organs, it does insure a pure, stimulating atmosphere and an agreeable moderation of temperature the year round.

5. It is a resort for all seasons of the year. The impression has largely prevailed, especially throughout the North and East, that Hot Springs was purely a winter resort. This is due, doubtless, to its location in one of the Southern states. Nothing, however, could be more erroneous. In fact, it is as an all-the-year-round resort that Hot Springs is gaining its greatest fame. In his report to the secretary of the interior for 1894, the superintendent of the reservation, Mr. William J. Little, says: "I give it as my unqualified opinion that the late spring and summer and the early fall are the most favorable times to visit Hot Springs for a course of treatment, especially if treatment is desired for rheumatism or any blood disease. Hot baths and drinking hot water in hot weather mean sweating, and sweating produced by the hot water of Hot Springs means cleansing the system of these diseases if they be present, and this may be more readily accomplished in summer than in winter." It must not be inferred from this that the heat of summer months is oppressive or even unpleasant. The warmest days are always tempered by the refreshing mountain breezes which blow constantly, and the nights are invariably cool and pleasant.

Highest temperature for the year 1894, 94; lowest, 23; mean average for the year, 72. Total number of clear days, 298; rainy days, 62; cloudy days without rain, 5.

Additional evidence that Hot Springs is a desirable summer resort as well as winter resort is found in the presence during this season of large numbers of the best Southern people from every section of the South, who select Hot Springs for their summer outing in preference to the resorts farther north. The Arlington hotel, open the year round, affords ample and luxurious accommodations at any season, and opportunities of amusement and recreation are always presenting themselves.

BEING A DISSERTATION ON THE HOT SPRINGS OF ARKANSAS, HISTORICAL AND LEGENDARY; WHO FOUND THE SPRINGS; HOW THE WATERS BECAME HOT AND WHO LAID THE
THE RAIL OF THE FIRST ROAD.

With an empire on which the sun never set Spain was mistress of the world, when by right of discovery the American continent was hers, and her claim was from pole to pole. Cuba and the islands of the Indies were her naval stations whence sailed her ships carrying explorers and conquistadores to the greater continent which all but became hers by conquest. The empire of the Montezumas had been destroyed, the kingdom of the Incas demolished, and the country from Mexico to Peru became Provinces of the realm of Spain and the millions of people were the vassals of the Spanish king. Cortez, master of Mexico, and Pizarro in Peru, left in the great empire of the north rich fields for adventure and conquest for other feet to tread and other hands to gather. As in the countries of the South, so in the North gold had been the goal, but there had gone abroad throughout the earth the fame of a spring whose waters brought youth to the aged, smoothed the wrinkles into rosy tints again and brought its bathers perpetual boyhood.

Ponce de Leon heard of these wonderful waters when he came with Columbus, he was younger then, gold and adventure had made him a sailor, but in after years when he was governor of Porto Rico and the weight of years had bowed his into an old man's form, he bethought him of the story of the spring of perpetual youth and started out to find it. He sailed with three ships from Porto Rico in March, 1512, but lazily dallied through the voyage, landing on this island and then on that, finally reaching the coast of Florida on the 29th of March, Easter Sunday, Pascua Florida, as the Spaniards call it, and thus gave the state its name. The search for the fountain of the magic waters began at once, the natives led the old don a lively chase, up the Oklawaha's crooked course to Silver Spring, where the waters were crystal clear and deep enough to float his ships, but their placid surface was not imparted to the wrinkles of the searcher after youth and beauty.

"Beyond, to the westward, toward the setting sun," was all the Indians would tell, and led the Spaniards to Wakulla, under the shadow of the Tallahassee hills—here, too, the waters were beautifully clear, but the swarthy skins were still brown when they bathed, and this was not the spring they sought.

"Beyond, to the westward, toward the setting sun," was still the answer. Disappointed and discouraged Ponce de Leon returned to his ships and sailed away, reëntered again in 1521, was met by hostile savages and in a battle with them received a poison arrow that caused his death soon after his return to Cuba.

Then came DeSoto, a younger man, in search for nothing in particular, but for anything he could pick up, not caring whether it was a gold mine or a fountain of perpetual youth. He was rich, he had been in Peru with Pizarro and had his share in the ransom of Atahualpa, so he could lend money to the king, which he did, and was made Adelantado of Florida. He was young, but recognized the fact that he would be older, and while in search of new honors and adventure, he might find gold and incidentally the spring of perpetual youth.

A quarter of a century had passed since Ponce de Leon came and went when De Soto's ships anchored in Espiritu Santo Bay on the west coast of Florida, the bay now called Tampa. They were good Indians at Tampa, but in the interior they were bad, and De Soto found that it was to be Peru over again if he was to get anything—nothing daunted he set out with his little army of five hundred men and two hundred horses in the year 1539. It was a splendid force of men that had marched behind De Soto under the banner of King Charles V. of Spain at the muster of San Lucar in old Spain, and with the story of Peru fresh in their minds sailed away, light hearted, and dreamed away the days that passed so slowly on the summer seas ere they came to Tampa bay; dreamed of gold, of fortunes made and youth renewed—now the long, tedious voyage was over and the march began that was to make their dreams come true.

As Cortez found an interpreter on the coast of Mexico in the person of a Spaniard held captive by the Indians from a former expedition, so De Soto found another, Juan Ortiz, who had for many years been a slave of the Indian king, Hirrihigua, but more a devoted slave of King Hirrihigua's daughter, who had saved his life, of course, a la Pocahontas, and under whose sweet influences he had learned the language of her people. Ortiz became the guide and interpreter of De Soto.

The Spanish chief had lost none of the cruel disposition evinced in the conquest of the Incas of Peru, and as Ovelde says, "was very fond of the sport of killing Indians." He made them, men and women, carry his baggage, work about the camp and find food for his men and horses, forcing one chief to go as far as the tribe of another, then sending him back, but the carriers trudged on until they died; hence the news of De Soto's coming was not good news, and his path was not strewn with roses.

An old man of "La Louliane," embracing the territory of Florida, Georgia, part of the Carolinas, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas, Missouri and Louisiana shows the route of De Soto's march. He passed very near Silver Spring and Wakulla, and must have halted to try the efficacy of the very beautiful waters of those springs, and he may have heard of the gold of Dahlonga, since his route turned northeast soon after he passed Wakulla and led him through the hills of north Georgia; thence De Soto marched in a southwesterly course and came to Mobile bay, where he rested, then going north, leaning westward, made the discovery of the Mississippi river at the Chicassaw Bluffs, between Helena and Memphis.

No gold had been found, but there was news of the fountain of youth, with the further information that the waters were hot and that these hot springs were just beyond the great river; all preparation was made for their quest. There was a grand review of his followers in bergantins made and launched on the waters of the mighty river. It had been more than two years since the muster at San Lucar, an ocean had been crossed and a continent traversed in weary marches, half his men had fallen by the way, but the review on the river was a picturesque celebration of the grand discovery.

Ortiz was dead, but their adversities had been a teacher of language to De Soto and his soldiers. They crossed the river near the lower Chickasaw Bluff in June, 1541, and pushed into the wilderness of Arkansas. Again there was news of a shining metal, and for the time the search for the fountain of youth was forgotten and the route of march was northwest; besides, the savages were jealous of their knowledge of the hot springs, and it may be that they invented the story of gold, as it was found that the "shining metal" was only of a baser sort, and the Spaniards were led on to the discovery of the lead and zinc mines of Missouri. The march was bitterly opposed by the Indians, whether it was in the direction of the healing waters or the shining metal, but more jealously guarded the hot springs, and harassed the soldiers at every step.

DeSoto chose the search for gold rather than the fountain of youth, and marched up the bank of the White river; he was led into a wilderness of impenetrable swamps where savage Indians lay in ambush at every turn. Near the present town of Jacksonport, a bloody battle was fought, in which the Spaniards were defeated; the march south abandoned and a further advance made along the banks of the White river and an attempt made to ford it at another point, and, although opposed by a large body of Indians, they were defeated. De Soto rested here a while and further news of the gold in the northwest was brought to him, the march to the supposed gold fields was resumed and the hot springs for the while forgotten. The Indians' gold was only zinc: the course was turned southward again and the search for the spring of the wondrous waters resumed, only to be hindered by the serious sickness of the intrepid leader of the band.

De Soto fell ill and was taken to the wigwam of a friendly Indian chief. This chief had a daughter whose beauty was the talk of the forests for miles and miles around about, and as a princess of the blood her hand was sought by the young chiefs of the tribes far and near, but Ulelah was a coy maiden, and up to the arrival of De Soto was heart-whole and fancy-free. The pages of history and fiction are strewn with the wrecks of disappointed hopes of lovers whose barks have been cast upon the rocks of a handsome man ill in the house of a sweetheart, and the young chiefs looked not with favor on De Soto's indisposition and sojourn in the tepee of Ulelah's father.

De Soto was fair to look upon from an Indian's point of view, and Ulelah was smitten with his manly beauty and became at once, ostensibly, his nurse, glad in her heart, probably, that the Spaniard was sick, because she knew of a cure that was sure; she knew where the hot springs were, and would take him there when his illness required it. In the meantime she could be near him, minister to his wants and care for him tenderly. While her father searched the forsts for roots and herbs with which to brew a healing potion, Ulelah gathered flowers and brought cool water from the brooks near by, thus to cheer him and to cool his fevered brow. De Soto's illness lingered, but withal if he had been better he might have lingered longer in these romantic shades and with such a ministering angel. The state of things was pleasant for all except Ulelah's lovers, and they dared not speak without the old chief's word, for his guest was his friend while he stayed.

Ulelah told her patient of the wonderful spring in the valley of vapors, the No-wa-say-non that the Kanawagas found and took their plague-stricken people to; told him how that many years ago when the world was young, the waters of the mystic spring where cold in the valley Man-a-ta-ka, the place of peace, where wars ceased to be and warriors laid down their bows and arrows to take up their stricken brothers and help them to bathe in the waters that the Great Spirit had with his warm breath turned from cold to hot for their healing; told him of the peaceful valley where no man was ever slain; no life of bird or beast ever taken; where all might come and put down the burden of human ailment.

Ulelah told De Soto of this and often entreated her father to take him to this famous mountain, but still the old chief delayed and Ulelah pleaded all the more; at last after many days her favor was granted and the journey commenced. De Soto was carried through the forests on a litter, Ulelah walked by his side and pushed away the too-obtruding branches that might brush her lover's face; was ever near in all the weary walk, to cheer him with her kindly smile and encourage with some new story of the wonderful waters that would make him well again.

At last they came to the valley Man-a-ta-ka, the place of peace, to the springs No-wa-say-non, the breath of healing. Ulelah brought the water for her lover to drink, and the old chief carried him in his arms to the pools of the health-restoring waters, that he might bathe and be well again. Soon De Soto was able to walk about under the trees that grow in the valley, leaning, perhaps, somewhat upon Ulelah's pretty shoulder, and walking, perhaps, somewhat near her side as he passed around some rugged rock on the mountain side. This was observed particularly by a young chieftain, upon whom Ulelah had looked with some favor before De Soto came, and who had followed her here and watched with a jealous eye the Spaniard's returning strength, till one day with uplifted tomahawk he sprang from behind a boulder and sought to strike his rival dead; the weapon trembled in the air, then dropped from his withered, palsied hand, harmless to the ground, ringing out the Great Spirit's decree that no blood should be shed in this valley of peace.

The story does not end as in the fairy tale, where "they married and lived happily ever afterward." Old Davilla's daughter, De Soto's wife, was far away in old Spain, but sufficiently near to prevent a pleasant denouement. History leaves us groping in the dark as to Ulelah's fate, and we cannot say whether she married a plumed and feathered chieftain or gave to some lofty cliff the name and title of "Lover's Leap," from whose top she plunged when, since De Soto went, life was not worth living.

De Soto had found a spring whose waters, if indeed they were not the waters of perpetual youth, were a panacea for all the ills the flesh is heir to, and he hastened away to tell the world about it—a wonderful tale, he thought, was his to relate, but he was not to come again to his native land—he died on his march and was buried beneath the waters of the great river he discovered. His companions took back to the civilized world the story of his achievements and recorded for De Soto and his intrepid band two of the greatest discoveries in the history of the world—the Mississippi river and the Hot Springs, of Arkansas.

One of the followers of De Soto, a Portuguese calling himself "a Gentleman of Elvas," says of his chief: "The governor rested a month in the province of Cayas, in which time the horses fattened and thrived more than in other places in a longer time, with the great plenty of maize and the leaves thereof, which I think was the best that has been seen, and they drank of a lake of very hot water, and somewhat brackish." The record shows that in 1541 he was ten days in coming down from Caligoa, a village in northwest Arkansas, to the province of Cayas, going from one tribe to another, as he had done in all his march from Tampa, probably because he could learn nothing from one tribe he went to another, or exhausting the abled-bodied in carrying his baggage he went to the next for his carriers.

Thus is the record clear that the white man was at Hot Springs more than three hundred and fifty years ago, but there is a lapse in that time of two hundred and sixty years, when a survey of the Hot Springs country was made under the direction of the United States government by Lewis and Clark, who descended the Mississippi to the mouth of the Red River, up that stream to the Ouachita, thence up to Hot Springs creek to the Hot Springs.

In 1807 Manuel Prudhomme built the first house at Hot Springs; by 1812 the first visitor had arrived; in 1826 John Millard built a double log cabin for the entertainment of visitors, which may be called the first hotel at Hot Springs. In 1829 the number of visitors began to increase, and in 1830 Asa Thompson erected the first bath house and the first real hotel. Though the fame of the waters had brought many a health-seeker even as far back as the old Spanish days.

Many attempts have been made by various and sundry persons to pre-empt the lands around Hot Springs, but they have remained the property of the United States since the treaty with the Quapan Indians in 1818, and prior to that time, being within an Indian reservation, could not be pre-empted, the spurious claims of Spanish grants having been repudiated, and under the title obtained from the emperor of France, Napoleon I., in the purchase of Louisiana, the right to the property is acknowledged to be vested in the government of the United States.

On the 20th of April, 1832, Congress passed an act setting apart four sections of land, 2,560 acres, as a reservation for the exclusive use of the United States, which settled forever all claims or pre-emptions, a decision that a terrible earthquake has failed to shake—this is not a simile, but a fact; in 1811 there was a violent earthquake near New Madrid, Mo., which submerged some lands belonging to settlers; the government granted to the losers of the land, warrants to locate on any unoccupied lands that had been surveyed and to which there was no title held by any Indian tribe.

These warrants were called "New Madrid Floats," were transferable and one of them having come into the possession of Col. Elias Rector, of St. Louis, in 1820, he tried to float it in the waters of Hot Springs, for your St. Louis man is cognizant of a valuable article when he perceives it, and to Col. Rector it appeared a safe investment in this warrant if he could locate it at this particular spot in the Ozark mountains. His plans, however, were not successful; the long and expensive litigation did not close until 1835-6, when the Court of Claims and the Supreme Court decided the case in favor of the United States and settled forever all claims to the lands of the Hot Springs reservation. The Government owns many reservations and parks, throughout the country, but this is the only one in its class, the only one that the government has held as a sanitarium. There are many hot springs, warm springs and springs of healing waters within the boundaries of the United States, but they have not been reserved for the people—then the very fact of the reservation of the Hot Springs of Arkansas places them pre-eminently above all others.

In thus preserving the ownership of Hot Springs the government has protected the people against all possibility of monopoly, and by discreet regulation establishes a competition that tends to prevent extortion that might come under a private control—and for her soldiers and sailors has established a great hospital for their exclusive use.

It was not until the early '70's that railway communication brought the famous sanitarium near enough to civilization to be largely patronized; then it was sixty miles from Little Rock, overland by stage to Hot Springs. A little later the great Iron Mountain road continued its extension towards Texas, and when it reached Malvern the stage ride was reduced to twenty miles; there was an increase in the number of visitors, even with the sixty mile stage ride from Little Rock, and a still greater influx when the coaches ran from Malvern. But even then the stages did not run every day; there was often a postponement on account of the weather, muddy roads and swollen streams.

One day in February, 1874, three gentlemen came to Malvern on the Iron Mountain: "Diamond Joe" Reynolds, Col. L. D. Richardson and Capt. William Fleming. They were very anxious to reach Hot Springs that day. The roads were bad, the creeks and rivers out of their banks; no one could be hired to venture out with a team; so they determined to walk. It is safe to say that the Hot Springs railroad did not originate in a promoter's office amid heaps of profiles, blue prints and statistics—as these three trudged towards the "Valley of Vapors" though rain and mud they thought—thought a great deal, and perhaps said things not calculated to be put in print, and not referring altogether to railroad building, but the argument in their minds was that if Hot Springs were sufficiently attractive to induce such a walk as this, to say nothing of the lumbering stages, the people would ride on any sort of a railroad, and they concluded to build a narrow-gauge, and before the year was out the whistle of the locomotive echoed back from the cliffs of the Ozark hills where fell the tomahawk that did not kill the Spanish chieftain, and thus is told the story from De Soto to Diamond Jo.

To point a moral and adorn a tale, an appendix is often necessary, and to this one it is essential; the railway that "Jo" built did not remain a narrow gauge; in 1859 it was changed to a standard, and in January, 1890, a through train ran from St. Louis to Hot Springs; the stage coach was long ago a thing of the past, and now even the change of cars at Malvern was done away with. Since then every day in the year the cars have gone through without change, carrying their burdens of pleasure as well as health-seekers, of despondent cripples and helpless invalids, bringing them back happy and sound and whole. It is a fact that is noted, that although the Iron Mountain road enjoys a monopoly of the tavel to Hot Springs, since there is no other route, there is a liberality on the part of the management that is not always exhibited in such cases. It is often considered that such great attractions as Hot Springs, with only one way of reaching them, do not need advertising and that the ordinary car service will suffice; yet here is a health resort that has been known to civilized man for more than three hundred and fifty years with only one means of access, and the management of that only road, the Iron Mountain, favors the public with the most beautiful books illustrated by the finest engravings on wood from drawings by such artists as Victor Perard, T. J. Blood, Warren B. Davis, F. A. Carpenter, F. Humphrey, W. Woolrych, E. A. Clement, A. E. Anderson and J. P. Davis, with text by the best writers; then the through car service is as fine as the finest in the land, with trains on accelerated schedules, taking the least possible time in transit. There is really only one Hot Springs, and the Iron Mountain is the only road, but you may have books and books, for the asking; books that tell the story of three centuries and of all there is there today; and when you go you may ride in the finest cars in the world—the cars that run down to the Valley of Vapors.

REAU CAMPBELL.

THE CITY OF HOT SPRINGS.

From the construction of the first bath-house in 1829 to the advent of the railroad in 1874, the development of Hot Springs was necessarily slow, though every year increasing numbers of invalids from all parts of the world, braved the inconveniences and annoyances of the limited means of transportation and the unattractive accommodations in their search for relief and restoration to health. The opening of the Hot Springs railroad in 1874 gave immediate stimulus to the place. Not only did the annual number of visitors become at once greater, but thousands of people took up a permanent residence and engaged in business. Thus within twenty years has sprung up a thriving, go-ahead city with fifteen or twenty thousand people, which entertains over fifty thousand visitors each year, and which possesses every convenience of easy accessibility, sumptuous hotels and unlimited facilities for recuperation and entertainment. Hot Springs is at once unique, picturesque and interesting. The visitor, while strolling along its avenues, is vividly impressed with the remarkable contrasts presented on every hand. Strong and vigorous men, with manly stride, pass their antipodes in invalid chairs or on crutches. Meek oxen gaze in silent wonderment at the spanking teams of thoroughbreds which prance by; the stylishly dressed New Yorker or Londoner walks side by side with the Ozark farmer in his rusty suit of gray jeans; the very buildings share the general antithesis; handsome four-story brick blocks look down on decrepid one-story wooden shanties, colossal hotels overshadow ramshackle lodging houses. Owing to the nature of the location there is little regularity about the streets and avenues. The main thoroughfares follow the courses of the streams between the mountains. Central avenue, the principal business street, being a broad valley running north and south between the Hot Springs and West Mountains. This was formerly the bed of the Hot Springs creek, and was filled with huge boulders, which, with the wanton course of the stream, made the valley well nigh impassable. The government work of confining the creek to a tunnel or underground passage, clearing the valley and constructing a well-paved street above, was an engineering feat of no small proportions. It was made necessary, however, before the bath-houses could be constructed, or a business street established. On Central Avenue are located most of the bath houses, hotels and business houses, though during recent years the Avenue, having been closely built up, the town has spread southward into the Ouachita Valley, which now claims many fine streets and business blocks. The bath-houses occupy about three blocks in the Government Reservation, on the east side of Central Avenue, in the heart of the city and at the base of the Hot Springs mountain, from which they are supplied direct with the thermal waters. The business part of the city is of a substantial and permanent character, and shows decided improvement in the past two or three years. Several solid business blocks have been and are now being erected, and still greater changes may be looked for in the near future. The street railway facilities of Hot Springs are remarkably good, there being over eight miles of electric car lines now in operation, connecting all avenues and sections of the city via Central Avenue. The rolling stock is new and the cars will compare favorably with those in use in large cities.

Hot Springs enjoys an excellent supply of pure water for drinking purposes and domestic uses and it is furnished in such volume as to be of effective use in case of fire. A clear mountain stream fed by huge springs, about two miles north of the city, was converted into a lake half a mile or more long, by the building of a dam of solid masonry, thirty-eight feet high, extending from mountain to mountain. From the lake this water is forced into an immense reservoir on the summit of the mountain, 280 feet above the streets of the city, causing so great a pressure that a stream from the largest hose can be thrown over the highest buildings without the aid of a fire engine. This improvement cost the city over $150,000, having a capacity of 2,250,000 gallons daily. The fire department is well organized and equipped with all necessary paraphernalia, and shows, when occasion requires, that it is fully efficient. The city is well supplied with churches, nearly all the leading denominations being represented, and all are in a flourishing condition. The choice residence portion of the city are on Park and Whittington Avenues, though there are many handsome homes in the southern section, especially on Malvern and South Central Avenues, and the government has erected expensive and beautiful houses on the Reservation for the superintendent and surgeon in charge of the Government Hospital. Many of the residences of Hot Springs will compare favorably, in elegance and beautiful surroundings, with those of larger cities, and are pleasing evidences of the wealth and refinement which have found their way to this city of the Ozarks.

There are three substantial banks in the city, three daily papers, good schools for children, excellent mail, express and telegraphic facilities, and emphatically no lack of medical attention. The retail stores are of all kinds, and the markets are well supplied, and prices are as reasonable as can be found anywhere.

In regard to the healthfulness of the city—a most important consideration to one contemplating either temporary or permanent residence there—Government statistics show that out of a total of 486 cities and towns in the United States, only five has as low a death rate as Hot Springs. There is only one city in British America having one as low, and none at all in England or Continental Europe. The death rate in 1894 among the permanent residents of Hot Springs was 7.74 per 1,000 inhabitants. When it is taken into consideration that a large per centage of the citizens went there afflicted with disease, and, being cured, have since made it their home, this low death rate seems all the more remarkable. The rate among the 50,000 annual visitors is very small, being only a little more than one and one-tenth per cent, and in nearly all cases of death among visitors, the disease causing the same had reached such an advanced stage that recovery, even under the most favorable conditions, and with the best medical attention, was an utter impossibility.

THE HOT SPRINGS WATERS.

The Hot Springs of Arkansas are situated upon the United States Government Reservation, and controlled by officers appointed by the government. They are seventy-two in number, with a temperature ranging from ninety-six degrees to one hundred and fifty-seven degrees Fahrenheit, and a flow of half a million gallons daily. The cause of their marvelous medicinal effect is still a mooted question among physicians and chemists. Careful analysis by eminent specialists show that on an average, the waters contain 12.94 grains of material in solution to the gallon. Of this material, nearly sixty per cent is carbonate of lime, over twenty-one per cent is silica, nine per cent is carbonate of magnesia, while the remainder is chiefly chloride of sodium (common salt), sulphate of soda (Glauber salt), and sulphate of potash.

This is but a slight proportion of minerals, in fact, no more than is to be found in many springs and well waters used for domestic purposes. It is, therefore, an accepted theory with most practitioners that the wonderful virtue of the waters lies in their natural heat, which seems to possess peculiar, perhaps magnetic, qualities, not characteristic of those of other warm springs, or of waters artificially heated. For these reasons this water is not portable, loses its therapeutic qualities entirely when cooled, and is of no value whatever when bottled, either in its natural state or as a basis of patent medicines.

Dr. William Elderhorst has this to say regarding the curative qualities of the water when used direct from the springs: "In many forms of chronic diseases especially, its effects are truly astonishing. The copious diaphoresis (perspiration) which the hot bath establishes, opens in itself a main channel for the expulsion of principles injurious to health, made manifest by its peculiar odor. A similar effect, in a diminished degree, is effected by drinking hot water—a common, indeed, almost universal practice among invalids at the Hot Springs.

"The impression produced by the hot douche, also, is indeed powerful, arousing into action sluggish and torpid secretions; the languid circulation is thus purified of morbid matters, and thereby renewed vigor and healthful action are given both to the absorbents, lymphatics and to the excretory apparatus—a combined effect which no medicine is capable of accomplishing.

"The large quantity of free carbonic acid which the water contains, and which rises in volume through the water at the fountain of many of the springs, has undoubtedly an exhilarating effect on the system, and it is, no doubt, from the water of the Hot Springs coming to the surface charged with this gas, that invalids are enabled to drink freely at a temperature at which ordinary water, from which all the gas had been expelled by ebullition, would act as an emetic."

It is a well known fact that the waters of all other hot springs, owing to their low temperature or the presence of deleterious minerals, are absolutely undrinkable.

All of the Hot Springs, with one exception, flow from the Hot Springs Mountain, on the east side of Central Avenue. Formerly, the hot water, with its accompanying clouds of vapor, could be seen issuing from the ground; but it is now, for the sake of economy and cleanliness, piped from the various springs to the different bath houses. This collection and distribution is done under the direct supervision of a superintendent appointed by the United States government, and every bath is taken under directions and regulations established by the government. The prices for baths range from twenty cents to sixty cents (the maximum fixed by the United States Government), for single baths, and from three dollars to ten dollars for a course of twenty-one baths. Attendants are not allowed to collect in excess of ten cents per bath, or $1.50 per course for their services.

The source of heat is a question that has given rise to much speculation. An eminent medical authority says: "I attribute the cause to the internal heat of the earth. I do not mean to say that the waters come in actual contact with fire, but rather that the waters are permeated with highly heated vapors and gases which emanate from sources deeper seated than the water itself. The whole geological structure of the country and that of the Hot Springs Ridge in particular, from which the water issues, justifies this assumption." The hot water is distributed entirely under the supervision of the Government. The bath houses are supplied direct from the Springs by gravitation.

The waters of the Hot Springs have been found invaluable in the treatment of all forms of rheumatism and gouty conditions, in all troubles of the stomach, liver and kidneys, paralysis and catarrh, in skin diseases, diseases of the blood, syphilis, etc., and are especially efficacious in nervous affections, particularly insomnia, nervous prostration and la grippe, in barrenness in women, and in all the various other female complaints, including those consequent upon the change of life.

A description of the manner in which the baths are given should be of interest and importance to all who come with the intention of taking a course of treatment. The patient undergoes a thorough examination by his physician, who then issues special instructions and regulations regarding the baths, regulating them to the exigencies of each case. If the physician discovers the heart or lungs are affected, the invalid is not allowed to take the baths, as they are liable under these conditions to prove harmful.

Simple palpitation and incipient lung trouble are benefited by careful bathing. The usual directions are to bathe about six minutes in water 96 to 100 degrees Fahrenheit; two to six minutes in the vapor room, and five to twenty minutes in blankets, according to the time required to produce perspiration.

Physicians do not agree as to the details of treatment; but all are governed by the physical condition of the patient and the nature of the disease. Some can remain in the water twice as long as others and have it much hotter with beneficial effect, while injudicious bathing by an invalid might prove injurious. It is never safe in any case to bathe without the advice of some reputable physician. Under such directions a large proportion of all who come can be cured. Those who bathe for pleasure, and that embraces all visitors not invalids, will find the knowledge of the attendants amply sufficient to regulate ordinary bathing.

SUBURBAN RESORTS OF HOT SPRINGS.

HAPPY HOLLOW.

Every one who visits Hot Springs quickly succumbs to the charms of Happy Hollow, and becomes its faithful admirer. A pleasant valley it is, indeed, and the favorite resort of pedestrians, though a street car line has recently invaded the picturesque glen, much to the disgust of many who consider the new-comer an unwarranted encroachment upon their pet promenade. Happy Hollow has, in a general way, been so happily and graphically described by Mr. William L. Belding that his description is herewith inserted. He says: "This is a dell that the imagination of the Greeks would have populated with all sorts of superhuman beings. It would have been a kingdom for fairies, a favorite haunt for nymphs and dryads, and might have been a trysting place for the gods and goddesses themselves.

"The place is neither a gorge nor a valley, but a quiet and peace inspiring glen—a narrow roadway, hewn from the side of the mountain, which disputes possession of the bottom of the dell with a creek. And a most delightful road it is, with the mountains thrusting their feet down from either side and nearly crushing you beneath the rocks and rising gracefully to the height of three or four hundred feet, their sides covered with huge rocks and tall sighing pines and oaks, which, in the autumn, form a most delightful picture in yellow and emerald. The foot path is excellent, the dell is cool, and there is a new charm at every step.

"At the terminus of the carriage road is located the celebrated Happy Hollow Spring. It is not hot water that boils up in the unique little summer house that has been built over the spring, but, notwithstanding that, it is a mineral water of high grade and possessed of great medicinal virtue. It is used solely for drinking purposes and in connection with the hot baths. Dyspepsia and indigestion have no show whatever when brought in contact with Happy Hollow water. It drowns rheumatism and gout, and, as it acts directly on the liver and kidneys, purifies the blood, producing a beautiful complexion, and is almost a specific in all the diseases of the urinary organs. It is visited by great numbers daily, who come to drink the water. Beyond the spring the road ceases, the glen becomes steep and the path is blocked and turned from side to side by huge boulders and the jagged, projecting edges of the mountain. At times it is almost impassable, and the explorer would like to give up and turn back, were it not that he desires to pursue the rocky way to the end and see where it terminates or commences."

Mr. Belding's explorer should not be discouraged. If he persists in pursuing the "rocky way," he will be amply rewarded for his climb, as the path leads him to the summit of the Hot Springs Mountain, with its picturesque walks, grand views, beetling cliffs and magnificent forests. The walk along the crest of the mountain, to and down the Grand Boulevard to the Army and Navy Hospital, is one of the greatest attractions at the Springs, and should not be overlooked by any one.

Happy Hollow is the lair of the Hot Springs burro, a large drove of these interesting little brutes being kept here for the use of visitors and pleasure parties. On their backs the intricacies of the upper glens may be explored, and as one does not present a particularly imposing appearance mounted upon one of these diminutive animals, the effect is ridiculous enough to furnish endless amusement, to say nothing of the wholesome exercise such a ride involves.

MOUNTAIN VALLEY SPRINGS.

The Mountain Valley Springs are located among the Ozarks, about twelve miles from Hot Springs, and the trip affords an excellent opportunity to become acquainted with Nature's finest handiwork. The journey can be made any way to suit the inclination of the tourist. There is a regular hack line running daily from the hotels at Hot Springs to Mountain Valley. There is the more private and independent way of hiring your own horse and buggy, and driving and stopping at will wherever you are interested, or it can be made the objective point of a horseback tour. It is one of the most charming rides in the vicinity. The road is over the mountains, plunging into gorges and through enchanted glens. Notwithstanding it has been recently improved, it is still a mountain road, and at times leads by points of thrilling interest. This very enjoyable ride terminates in one of the most beautiful valleys in the Ozark range. On all sides are the mountain peaks, shutting in a portion of the earth of paradisiacal beauty, peace and quiet. Tall primeval forest trees are singing Nature's hymns over the valley. The patches of open are verdant with grass and shrubbery, and an air of seclusion and rest is all-prevalent. You will scarcely expect to find here a modern six-story hotel with "all the latest conveniences and comforts," as the hotel men say—and you don't. The hotel is entirely in keeping with the surroundings. You can expect quiet and rest at an inn, but not at a modern resort hotel. This is just the difference between the big bustling hostelries of the city we have just left behind, and the low quaint structure nestling in Mountain Valley. Its picturesque architecture is Southern in character, being one-story in height, and covering a great deal of ground. Cool, spacious verandahs cover the whole front of the hotel. Trailing vines overrun it in great profusion, and, altogether, it is a charmingly rare picture, and fills the beholder with an overpowering desire to settle down here, bag and baggage, and stay until satisfied with Nature's charms.

Nature sometimes scores a bull's eye in her arrangement of things, and this feat was accomplished when these springs of health-renewing mineral waters were caused to burst forth in the midst of this beautiful valley.

It is a matter of regret that the whole valley and springs could not have been located at a greater distance from Hot Springs, so that they could have had a chance at fame on their own merits.

The waters are very valuable, as their combined minerals constitute a curative medium for internal use not equalled. The analysis shows a large percentage of bicarbonate of iron, lime and magnesia, sulphate of lime, chloride of iron, chloride of iodine, and phosphoric acid, but not even a trace of organic matter.

They cure or benefit Bright's disease, and all kidney troubles, all dropsies of a kidney or liver origin, including cirrhosis, and are of great value in the treatment of female complaints.

POTASH-SULPHUR SPRINGS.

A short mile from Lawrence Station, and seven miles from Hot Springs, are located the health-giving Potash-Sulphur Springs. Ten trains pass Lawrence daily, and are met by hacks which convey visitors to and from the Springs. A handsome two-story hotel, neatly furnished, and numerous cottages afford the best of accommodations to guests, and the table is satisfactory in all respects. The air at Potash-Sulphur is at all times pure and balmy, while surrounding mountains and valleys afford picturesque scenery and charming walks and drives. Deer, wild turkey, quail and other game afford good shooting, and the Ouachita river, one mile distant, furnishes abundant sport for the angler. The Springs, which are near the hotel, are five in number, but all possessing similar properties. The waters are sulphuretted alkaline, and are highly esteemed by the medical fraternity of Hot Springs, who send many of their patients there to spend a few days while resting after taking a course of hot baths. Dr. John C. Branner, State Geologist of Arkansas, says of them: "The importance of the Potash-Sulphur waters is too well known to admit of question * * * The chief ingredients are sodium sulphate, sodium carbonate and potassium chloride, the sodium amounting to 13.66 grains per gallon, the potassium to 3.51 grains per gallon."

The following diseases are cured or benefited by the use of the waters of this valuable spring: Dyspepsia, gout, rheumatism, affections of the liver, kidneys and urinary organs, female diseases, dropsy and all complaints originating from an excess of acid in the system, skin diseases and chronic dysentery. In diseases of the kidneys and urinary passages, stricture, gleet, and especially in calculous affections, there is no known remedy so efficacious as this water. It acts as a solvent in the various forms of gravel, and is very efficacious in the treatment of all mercurial diseases.

Among the other resorts are Gillen's White Sulphur Spring; Spring Lake Hotel; Thousand Dripping Springs, and many others.

*The "Arlington" is Open
All the Year . . .
Round . . . . .*

SPECIAL RATES FROM JUNE 1ST TO OCTOBER 1ST.

THE ARLINGTON is the only hotel on the United States Reservation at Hot Springs. This magnificent building is erected on the site of the old Arlington, a location more commanding, more convenient, and more picturesque than is that of any other hotel in the valley. Besides the exquisite natural beauty of its surroundings, the Arlington has the superior advantage of a location immediately at the fountain head of the Hot Springs; here the waters are at their highest temperature and retain all their restorative qualities. The hotel is entirely new, practically fire-proof, and has all the modern conveniences. Iron bridges connect each floor with the mountain, immediately in the rear of the hotel. Invalids in chairs may be wheeled directly from any floor to the mountain, on which the Government has laid out beautiful drives and walks. In case of fire, these bridges offer sure, safe and speedy means of escape. The elegant bathing establishment is a part of the hotel building and is erected on the site of the old Rector Bath House, so well known to all who have visited Hot Springs. No detail of comfort or convenience has been omitted, and guests will find that the baths at the Arlington are superior in every respect.

The Kenilworth Inn

Opened its Third Season under management of

— on January 16, 1899.

L. A. Kittredge was proprietor of the famous "Antlers" of Colorado Springs, Colorado, for five years. Mr. Kittredge was proprietor of the Paxton Hotel, Omaha, Nebraska, for five years and proprietor of the Leland Hotel, Chicago, Illinois, for three years.

L. A. Kittredge now gives his personal attention to the management of the house, and will be assisted by many of his former employees, which will insure to former patrons those attentions to all details that go to make life pleasant. The reason of his success is due primarily to his having solved the secret of making guests comfortable, and that one fact brings old faces back year after year.

On a beautiful plateau at an elevation of 2,340 feet above the sea level, encircled by mountains, and overlooking the city of Asheville, two miles away, and the beautiful rivers, the French Broad and the Swannanoa, stands the Kenilworth Inn.

It was built in 1892 at a cost of $300,000, and $65,000 were expended in new furnishings and repairs by the present management. Early in 1897 every hall and room was newly papered, painted and carpeted, and the Inn was furnished throughout with new mahogany, birch and maple chamber sets, chairs and rockers, selected particularly with a view to comfort and design

DON'T LEND YOUR UMBRELLA.

Did you ever lend your umbrella? If so did you ever get it back? If you got it back, didn't you have to go after it or hunt for it?

Now, if you never loaned your DIRECTORY we recommend you never to try it, for you will suffer a worse fate than with your parachute!

Borrowers, generally, are chronically such. Their conscience is "seared as with a hot iron." Beyond the shadowy vision of its ultimate reappearance, you will never see it again. The man who borrows a Directory never buys or subscribes for it (or for anything else). Ask him to do so, "he doesn't want it," "never has any use for it," "he knows more about the people in this city than you can tell him," "he knows everybody" and "VICE VERSA, Everybody Knows Him" (as a borrower). Yet the virgin freshness of its leaves has hardly been sullied by human touch before this individual wants to borrow your Directory. "He will bring it back right away."

THIS IS PROPHETIC.

Keep your Directory; it has cost you money; you can't buy another. It is out of print, for we publish only the number subscribed for.

Massage, and other Physical Treatments
Approved by the Profession.

Physical Culture, for Young and Old, 50 cents a lesson, or $5.00 a dozen in advance. Send for Information.

GENERAL INFORMATION.

Lounging Room and Cafe in connection with General Bath and the Gymnasium departments which are in use at all times.

Recreation Room and Gymnasium: A large hall adjoining General Bath Systems, affording opportunities for play and exercise nowhere equaled, for the maintenance of vigor and tone in the health and for their restoration when lost.
A trained Gymnast and Delsarte Expert in attendance.

The Administration of all the Above is Under the Direction of Experts.

NOTE: All baths open for women and children during the morning hours and for men in the afternoon and evening.

Prescriptions for any treatment from any recognized physician will be honored.
Such physicians will retain absolute control of the case as long as they may desire.

Guests and citizens of Asheville generally are cordially invited. Their admittance to the baths may be direct from the outside without entering the main building.

Tickets for sale at the principal drug stores, hotel offices, book stores, etc.,
in Asheville.
